LAW FIRM FOCUSED ON COLLECTING DEBT FOR GOVERNMENT TO EXHIBIT SERVICES AT ALL ELECTRONIC TOLL COLLECTION SUMMIT IN MIAMI, FL JULY 12-14

HOUSTON, TEXAS July 9, 2015 -- In response to a toll industry need, law firm Perdue Brandon Fielder Collins & Mott has announced their participation in the annual Summit on All Electronic Tolling, Managed Lanes & Interoperability July 12-14 in Miami, Florida. Participation as an exhibitor at this toll industry association event is in response to inquiries from industry firms that would like to know more about how the firm's experiences in toll collection can expand beyond Texas.

"Our 45 year old firm initiated a toll collection practice in 2013, understanding that the collection of toll and related fees for government entities that are building infrastructure has never been quite as important for mobility as it is now; with gas tax revenue falling drastically short of supplying the needed funding to build new roads. This is an issue that affects Texas and the nation," says Mike Siwierka, the partner in charge of the toll practice.

The firm has two contracts with government tolling entities within the state of Texas and is seeking to bring their solution to this revenue shortfall beyond Texas borders. Requests to know more about how the firm's services can scale beyond Texas have provided the impetus for the firm's attendance at this event.

“We have staff with deep experience in toll collection systems and processes supporting our customer service center so we are attuned to the specialized needs of toll authorities. We need to balance the need to collect tolls and fees with their desire to maintain an amicable relationship with the communities they are charged with serving,” says Siwierka. “We can tailor recovery strategies with a personal approach to meet or exceed each client’s unique expectations. “
